NOBIS Young Researchers' Day

The network of biological systematics is growing!

Venue	Naturhistorisches Museum Wien http://www.nhm-wien.ac.at/
Organizers	The executive board of NOBIS Austria
Program	29. 11. 2013 Presentations and NOBIS Award

The 1st NOBIS Young Researchers' Day tries to attract young members of the scientific community, who usually depend on temporary projects and third-party funds. We intend to provide a platform for information exchange and will discuss the problems and possibilities during the early stage of a scientific career. The keynote by Jürgen Herler (Department of Integrative Zoology, University Vienna) will summarize how master and PhD students can be successfully included in research projects, fieldwork and publications.

We encourage especially young scientists (master or PhD level) to send their abstracts and to apply for the new NOBIS Award of € 500.-. This award is a price for an already completed or nearly finished scientific project. Applicants will be invited to present their results and a jury will announce the winner during the meeting.

For the first time, the NOBIS Grant of € 3000.- will be awarded. This grant aims to support an active or planned scientific project. The winner will be designated by the executive board of NOBIS-Austria before the meeting and will be invited to present the project at the NOBIS-Young Researchers' Day.

For further informations see attachment "NOBIS-Preis.pdf" and "NOBIS-Stipendium" or visit the NOBIS homepage for information; please note that November 1st is the deadline for submission!

Contributions by established and settled colleagues are highly welcome and will be presented in the special poster session during the second half of the meeting.
