

SYSTEMATICS & CLIMATE CHANGE

16th Annual Meeting of NOBIS Austria

University of Graz
November 25th-26th, 2022

We work for tomorrow

NETWORK OF BIOLOGICAL SYSTEMATICS AUSTRIA

1st Circular

The NOBIS meeting 2022 “Systematics and Climate Change” is organized in collaboration with Stephan Koblmüller and Kristina Sefc of the University of Graz. Conference contributions with a focus on systematics and evolution in the light of a changing environment are particularly encouraged. Traditional biosystematic contributions focusing on evolutionary research, phylogeny and taxonomy are of course welcome too.

Preliminary Program

Friday, 25th November 2022

- 13:00—17:00 Workshop “Phylogeny & diversification rates” held by Matthias Affenzeller & Flavia Nardi, 10 persons max. (first come, first served).
 17:30—21:00 Icebreaker in the glass house of the Botanical Garden (Schubertstr. 59).

Saturday, 26th November 2022

- 9.00 Welcome address at the Institute of Biology (Universitätsplatz 2, Graz)
 9.10-9.50 Keynote address by Jan Habel (Uni Salzburg) on the topic of climate change, conservation biology and biodiversity (exact title tba)
 9.50-17.00 Talks, poster presentations and awards by NOBIS Austria

- Talks 12+3 minutes
Posters A0 (portrait format) plus 3 min presentation of graphical abstract
Language English
Fee NOBIS members: € 20; Non-members: € 35 (student), € 50 (regular)
Payment By wire transfer to NOBIS Austria (IBAN: AT622011128822667900, BIC: GIBAATWW) or in cash at registration desk

We invite our junior colleagues to apply for the NOBIS prizes of € 500 each for the best talks by a Master and a PhD student and for the NOBIS Grant of € 3000. Further information about the NOBIS grant and the presentation prizes can be found on the NOBIS website (<http://www.nobis-austria.at/>).

Deadline for abstract submission: October 16th 2022

Deadline for registration: November 6th 2022

Abstracts and registration: nicolegrunstra@gmail.com

Please use the registration and abstract submission forms posted on the NOBIS website (<http://www.nobis-austria.at/>).

Please note that the meeting will be in person and that we are unable to offer remote participation at this stage.